Easy to follow instructions. Anyone can do this after purchasing the necessary ingredients which are basic to these bath bombs. It has some color options but no information on how to mix colors and make multi colored bath bombs. This book has some good scent combination options and good ideas for scents. I recommend this book for any beginner.

This book is very helpful in getting started making bath bombs.

Have only just gotten the book and not tried any recipes yet...however, I am confused. In the beginning of the book where it lists ingredients needed, it says to use "...super fine granules" of citric acid as the powdered is too volatile. Yet, the very first recipe calls for "powdered" citric acid. Anyone can help me with this? I have "fine" granulated citric acid, will it work? Could the author have meant solid as opposed to liquid perhaps?

Good book. Haven't done but a couple of recipes..

Nice little guide!

This is great for beginners. It has very basic and simple bath bomb recipes. It has some color options but no information on how to mix colors and make multicolored bath bombs. I don't like using food coloring because they contain FD&C Lakes and Dyes which tend to be carcinogenic and contain parabens, etc. I use mica powders for color. I also try to stay away from corn products so I substitute the cornstarch for Arrowroot Powder. This book has some good scent combination options and good ideas for scents. I recommend this book for any beginner.
