Customer Reviews

I am currently using a very popular Christian homeschool program that is centered around geography. I was shocked to find that there are hardly any activities dealing with the actual facets of geography, instead lots of readings about character and missionaries. Thank God for this series! I have used the South America book to supplement the awful curriculum and plan on doing the same with the other continents. Unlike some other publishers of theme books, these are filled with activities along with the worksheets. One could use these as a stand alone geography curriculum; I probably will when my youngest comes to this stage. I can't rave enough about this product!

Great resource.

The book has great ideas, but a lot of the information for the students to learn is not in the book. There are a lot of questions that students need to use atlases, the internet, or other non-fiction reference books to answer the questions. I do not have a lot of the resources needed for the students to answer the questions.

We love this series. Includes a map of South America and covers the five themes of geography. There are also great ideas on how to use this book. Topics covered are: Introducing and locating South America; hemispheres; water & landforms; oceans, lakes & rivers; Andes mts., rainforest, Gran Chaco & Pampas, Atacama Desert, Altiplano; comparing regions; political divisions; locating cities by latitude & longitude and using a compass rose; population, resources, imports, exports; plants & animals (including animals of the Galapagos Islands; and the people (Incas) and their languages. It has different activities to complete that are fun and interesting. I read the review from the person about not having access to a computer or the resources needed to complete a few of the assignments, but the library would have anything you need that you do not have access to at home; including a computer. If you chose not to do every single page in the book (80 pgs. total) your children would still have a very comprehensive knowledge of South America when you finish. I homeschool and I let the kids choose which continent we are going to study next; which keeps them involved and excited about continuing geography. I highly recommend this series.
