Leonard Stern and Roger Price created Mad Libs in the 1950s and the series has been a favorite among kids of all ages ever since. Although Roger Price passed away in 1990, Leonard Stern keeps the tradition alive by writing new Mad Libs all the time. Roger Price and Leonard Stern are both well known for their comedy writing. In the 1950s Roger Price created and developed cartoons called Doodles, which were turned into a television show. Before that Price worked with Bob Hope on a newspaper humor column, and he even appeared on Broadway in Tickets, Please! Leonard Stern has an equally colorful and varied history. Before co-founding Price Stern Sloan with Roger Price (Sloan came later), Stern was a successful television writer. In addition to his creative involvement with over twenty television series and over ten motion pictures, Stern worked with Jackie Gleason in

New York writing the Honeymooners. He also wrote for the Phil Silvers Show, The Steve Allen Show, and wrote and produced the original Get Smart television series. Recently, Stern published A Martian Wouldn't Say That, which compiled weird and wacky memos written by people in the entertainment industry. Currently, Stern serves as a senior vice president of Price Stern Sloan, where he still writes those hilarious Mad Libs. © 2000 by Penguin Putnam Books for Young Readers. All rights reserved.

I homeschool my son and Mad Libs is just another fun way for me to teach. We always have a good laugh too. I'm pleased they have Mad Libs to purchase with all kinds of different topics. Every age enjoys in this household. :)

Great for long car rides with teens. Gets the family interacting.

Bought for niece and nephew for their road trip. They loved it.

These are so fun. I loved them as a kid and now so do my kids!

Mad Libs is a great way to teach parts of speech in a fun way. I even took them to the women's jail where I volunteer and we had lots of laughs plus they were trying to remember what an adjective and adverb were!! Highly recommended for all ages!!

My sons loved it (ages 12 and 10).

Love all mad libs books. Can't get enough!!

I liked this but I would have liked better scenarios. Like end of the world stuff
